THREE MARINE FLIERS KILLED IN CRASH

MAJOR LUTZ, CURTISS AWARD WINNER, DIES IN TAIL SPIN

Lieutenant and Mechanic Also Plunge to Death.

ENGINE BLAMED

Corporal, Severely Burned, Probably Will Recover.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Major Charles A. Lutz, veteran marine flier and holder of the coveted Curtiss trophy, and two other marine fliers were killed early today when their big Fokker plane went into a tail spin near Ft. Va.

Plane Ran Into Fog. An official report to the navy department said the plane ran into a heavy fog after passing over the Quantico marine base. The accident was attributed to engine trouble.

Besides Lutz, Lieutenant Howard B. Busbey, married, of Washington, and Corporal D. C. McFadden, of Detroit, a mechanic, were killed.

Corporal Reeder Nichols, of Florence, Ala., was injured, but probably will recover. He was severely burned, the report said.

Enroute to Nicaragua. The plane took off from the navy field at Anacostia at 1 a. m. today, passed over Quantico, Va., the marine base, about 1:30 and apparently fell shortly thereafter.

The report to the navy department said that it appeared Major Lutz was seeking a landing place because of bad weather.

Major L. M. Bourne, commandant of the Marine fliers at Quantico, went to the scene to make an investigation. Lutz was enroute to Nicaragua by way of Miami, Fla., to take charge of the marine forces in the southern republic. He at first had intended to make a non-stop flight to Nicaragua but the navy department required that stop be made at Miami.

1,884 Leave Harvard.
Rabbits and Humans.
Throw Away Ambition.
Sound in Movies.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review.)

HARVARD gave degrees to 1,884 students. Of four young men attaining highest scholastic standing, taking their bachelor's degree, summa cum laude, two were Jewish boys. That should modify a certain Harvard attitude on one race question.

THE French say "travel forms youth when it doesn't reform it." The same is true of a college education. How many of the 1,884 young men are able for having gone to college? How many leave with a keen desire for knowledge? How many with a conviction that they know almost everything?

How many would have been far ahead on the road to success if they had spent their college years at work?

CHARLES F. BRUSH, able citizen, inventor of the arc light, sets aside $500,000 to keep down excess population and improve the race.

Brush advocates stringent birth control, sterilization of the physically and mentally unfit.

MANY think they can improve on Providence and the workings of nature in regard to population.

Nature knows how to get rid of the unfit. The important thing is to have crowds of humans from which to select exceptional men and women to do the real work.

HOWEVER, nature's methods change. China, that once drowned the girl babies, now keeps them alive. Plagues that killed off millions a year are fought by modern science, and population thus increases.

Hunger and plague used to kill off the weak, as war killed off those that were too combative.

If civilization stops war, and science

Cordell Hull Declares in Favor of Dry Plank.

HOUSTON, June 23.—Senator James A. Reed, father of the senate's slush fund inquiries and the "Fighting Jim" of Missouri Democracy, today announced his fight for the Democratic presidential nomination would be carried "to the end of the road."

In a brief but characteristic interview with newspaper men, Reed smilingly declared the Missouri delegation was confident of nominating him. He did not mention Governor Al Smith of New York, his principal rival, but he did serve notice there would be no compromise in his battle for the nomination.

"The only maxim Missouri knows, is: To the end of the road," said Reed. "That is road, not rope, as somebody once got it."

Reed, however, pledged himself to the support of Smith or any other Democrat in event the other man won.

QUIZ EXPRESS MESSENGER IN TRAIN HOLD-UP IN MICHIGAN

Lone Bandit Gets 1,500 in Car Robbery.

RIFLES PACKAGES

Police Watch Roads in Northern Ohio for Fugitive.

BLISSFIELD, Mich., June 23.—Police, New York Central and American Railway Express company detectives today are continuing to question A. B. "Bob" Carrothers, express messenger, regarding details of the $1,500 robbery on Carrothers' car last night on a New York Central train.

Carrothers' story is that when the train stopped in Adrian enroute from Chicago to Buffalo shortly before 11 p. m. last night, he stepped to the next car for a moment and that when he returned a masked bandit covered him with a gun and then proceeded to rifle packages until the train arrived in Blissfield, where the bandit jumped off.

First intimation of the robbery came just as the train left Blissfield when Carrothers yelled to persons at the station that "I'm robbed." According to Deputy Sheriff H. J. Fritz of Lenawee county, this came just as the train was pulling out and no other information was received until after Carrothers told his story to Toledo police.

No Trace of Automobile. Carrothers describes the bandit as being "little more than a boy" about 5 feet 10 inches tall, weighing about 150 pounds and wearing a blue suit, tan shoes, and light felt hat. He was masked. Several persons assert that they saw such a man riding an interurban car from Blissfield to Adrian.

While Carrothers is being questioned, officials of Blissfield, Monroe, Detroit and Toledo have posted watchers on the network of roads in southern Michigan and northern Ohio in event the bandit met accomplices in Blissfield who had a waiting automobile.

At the time the train stopped at Blissfield, a driving rain was falling and Deputy Sheriff Fritz declared that he has been unable to find any trace of an automobile leaving the village.

Officials of the express company here refuse to divulge the amount of money taken and first estimates of a $50,000 loss have been cut to $1,500. The safe in the car was not opened and the money was taken from express packages. Carrothers lives just outside Toledo on rural route No. 3, near the Inverness Country club.

Secretaries Hoover and Work Ready to Resign.

OHIOAN IN LINE

G. O. P. Nominee Plans Week-end Trip Down Potomac.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Within six weeks, President Coolidge will be called on to fill two cabinet posts as a result of the resignations of Secretary of Commerce Hoover, the Republican presidential candidate, and Secretary of Interior Work, new head of the G. O. P. national committee.

Officials here today considered it probable that Hoover and Work would have considerable to say about these appointments and that the new cabinet officers would be maintained in the next administration should the Republicans triumph.

Walter F. Brown, of Ohio, whose appointment as assistant secretary of commerce, was among the first definite moves by Hoover toward the nomination, is a possibility as head of the commerce department. Brown was chief of a presidential committee that reorganized government bureaus some years ago. It was understood that his appointment was made with the plan that he would be secretary.

Good Confers With Nominees. Hoover today was making plans to get out of Washington for California as soon as possible. He expects to leave the capital between July 2 and 5 and take a rest until the notification speech the last of the month.

James W. Good, of Iowa, the pre-convention manager, was expected here today for the first conference with his chief since the nomination. After the conference an announcement was expected as to whether Good would accept the post of western campaign manager with headquarters at Chicago.

Hoover planned to emulate President Coolidge by a week-end trip down the Potomac on the interior department steamer Killbuck. Only a small party of personal friends will accompany the secretary.

WARREN, O., June 23.—Russell Siegel, 35, is alleged to have admitted to Prosecutor Linn B. Griffith that he shot and fatally wounded Max Iddings, 27, a roomer at the Siegel home on the Youtstown-Hubbard road, near here yesterday, because Iddings had caused considerable family trouble.

Siegel, father of five children, aged to 12 years, found Iddings with his wife when Siegel came home after a visit to his parents

Body of Glenn Malone, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Malone, who was drowned yesterday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock in the river off Eighth street, Wellsville, had not been recovered at noon today.

Despite a practically unending search in which police, relatives and friends aided in dragging the river yesterday afternoon and through the night, the waters of the Ohio, swollen and swift from heavy rains, had failed to give up the boy.

For several hours last night the mother of the boy stood vigil on the river bank.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. D. N. MacLean and Mr. and Mrs. W. L. McLean of Riverside avenue left today on a motor trip through Ohio, West Virginia and Virginia. They expect to be gone about a week.

Thomas O'Brien of Main street and his granddaughter, Mary Johnson, have left for a visit in Cleveland.

Services in Hammondsville.

Nazarene church services will be held tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock in Hammondsville. Speaking and special music are on the program.

The Malone boy, according to reports, was playing with two others, Charles and Lester French, aged 7 and 5, respectively. They went to the river bank and found there a small raft, moored to the shore. The three, it is said, were aboard the raft when it began to move slightly. The boy, evidently believing that it had broken loose, jumped from the raft into the swift water. He was rapidly carried under and down the stream while Ural Little, Dwight Baker, Carl Drummond, Bert Ross, Phil Lowther, George Ingram, Thomas Malone, a brother, and others endeavored to aid him. But current and high stage of the water thwarted their efforts.

Searchers this morning were dynamiting near the spot where the lad disappeared.

CITY TACKLES CLEAN-UP JOB

Restore Normalcy Here
Following Storm Damage.

Faced with the most difficult clean-up job that the city has ever tackled, Wellsville municipal authorities today were bending all efforts to bring conditions back to normal following Thursday's heavy rain storm.

Clean-up crews have been set to work in various portions of the city, making streets passable and opening up clogged sewers, while City Engineer R. D. McGill and Service Director George Imbrie are concentrating their efforts on repairs to the break in the 16-inch water main from the reservoir which temporarily cut off the city's supply.

Aided by Ohio Power company forces, city workmen are installing a temporary water line, of eight-inch capacity, connecting above the break and below it. Water will be turned into the eight-inch pipe upon its installation and repairs will then be made to the main line.

It has been necessary to hang the temporary pipe above the creek waters by cable and this work is being done by the Ohio Power Co.

McQueen's Run sewer, of 12 foot capacity, which Thursday night carried 2 feet of water at the height of the storm, observers say, today was reported in good condition.

State and county highway departments will maintain a watchman at the detour bridge on Wells avenue for 18 hours a day immediately after the closing of the present steel viaduct over little Yellow creek.

These men will hold police powers and will work under supervision of Chief of Police John Fultz.

ELKS' FISH FRY
SUNDAY NIGHT

Officers of Wellsville Elks' lodge today announced completion of plans for a fish fry tomorrow evening in the lodge home, Riverside avenue.

Fish for the fry have been shipped to the lodge home from Atlantic City by Daniel Fitzgerald.

Dinner will be served at 6 o'clock.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, June 23.—Heavy selling of the industrial stocks and the motors broke out at the beginning of the short session of the market today, carrying prices of many of the market leaders down 2 to 5 points below the level of the previous close. A good part of the selling was attributed to western traders, who were forced by a new crash in Bancitaly Corporation to liquidate their holdings of other stocks. Bancitaly declined 11 points to 40 in the curb market in the first period as the result of this "distress selling" by outsiders.

Spotty trade conditions at the weekend were spotty, with an unusually bad June weather record and a mixture of good and bad reports from the crop and agricultural districts. Excess of rainfall has delayed the ripening of fruit, and backwardness of a portion of the wheat belt is due to the same influence. The week-end commodity markets were irregular and featureless, with cotton up about 25 points and grain off fractionally.

First Drowning

A Wellsville boy is the victim of the first drowning in the East Liverpool-Wellsville district.

Glenn Wilkinson, 7, unable to swim, lost his life in the Ohio river yesterday afternoon, when he jumped from a raft on which he was playing.

Older companions heroically attempted to rescue him, but twice he slipped from the grasp of one lad.

The accident, for which no one is blamed, drives home the danger lurking in rivers, lakes and creeks for boys who have not mastered the art of swimming. And it emphasizes the fact that drowning causes the greatest number of deaths other than automobiles in public accidents.

Accidental fatalities last year numbered 85,500 in the United States, and of these the motor car claimed more than one-fifth. Approximately 8,000 persons were drowned. Other causes were railroad accidents, falls, burns and asphyxiation.

This appalling toll should prompt avoidance of hazards which accidental deaths point out. In other words, do not be a "chance taker."

"Girl Lindy's" Honesty

Miss Amelia Earhart's statement to a press representative, that she was "just baggage" aboard the Friendship, may not assist materially in establishing her reputation as an aviatrix, but it speaks well for her candor and honesty.

Miss Earhart explained that she had not piloted the Friendship on the flight across the Atlantic not because she couldn't fly an aeroplane, but because of the fact that all the way across, save for about an hour, she and her companions were flying through blankets of fog which obscured their vision and made blind flying necessary.

"Stultz is a brilliant pilot without being able to see anything but instruments," Miss Earhart says, "but I just can't do it. In clear weather I would have, but we had mist for such a long time that it was impossible."

In a word, Miss Earhart is a fair-weather flier. She doesn't pretend to be a navigator, she admits that she can not fly blind and that on the way across the ocean she took much the same role as that of Levine, when he went across with Chamberlin and was classed as a passenger, although Levine did pilot their aeroplane for a time.

Miss Earhart has the distinct of being the first woman to fly across the Atlantic. She has unquestionable courage. She is frank, and has displayed becoming modesty, but the crossing made by her can hardly be said to have demonstrated her fitness—or woman's fitness, for that matter—to pilot a heavier-than-air machine across the Atlantic.

Gallant Explorer Lost

Since Monday, Raoul Amundsen, noted Arctic explorer, had been out of touch with the world in his efforts to find the Italian, Umberto Nobile, and the remnants of the crew of the lost Italia.

Grave fears are felt that Amundsen has sacrificed his life in an effort to locate the man who was his companion two years ago in a flight over the North Pole and return.

It was tragic that the venturesome Nobile should have lost his dirigible and a part of his crew, and be forced down himself somewhere in the Arctic fastnesses, from which he has been unable to return, but for another explorer even more famed than the Italian, to go to his death in the same grim region, is even more serious.

That Amundsen embarked on the journey which it is feared has resulted in his loss, without fear of the consequences, but as a gallant explorer eager to succor the man with whom he had previously braved death in scientific research, bespeaks the quality of the material in his makeup. Men like Amundsen—or Nobile, had their predicament been reversed—do not hesitate where duty calls. They merely answer the call.

The world will grieve if Nobile is not found. And the loss of Amundsen will be a distinct shock everywhere.

Federal Trade Inquiry

There's a strong possibility that newspaper readers may get the wrong slant on the revelations resulting from the federal trade commission's investigation of the great volume of propaganda put out by the electric power interests against the Boulder dam project; at least that they may draw the wrong conclusion from it.

It is also possible that the investigation has been brought about, directly or indirectly, through the efforts of the proponents of the dam who will probably profit in the event of its construction. If such is the case, they can not be blamed for "playing the game" to advance their interests. On the other hand, there is no reason why the electric power interests should not oppose the construction of the dam if they believe that its construction and operation will prove inimical to them, and there is nothing illegal in their action in putting out a flood of propaganda to influence the public against its construction. So long as they expend money legitimately in spreading their propaganda, whether in buying newspaper advertising, or in hiring speakers to address gatherings, or in sending out literature, they are not violating business ethics, but there may be question of the ethics of introducing their propaganda into colleges and schools, as they are charged with having done, by hiring college professors and school instructors to champion their cause. It is hardly in accord with the eternal fitness of things that those under salary for teaching in schools and colleges should be working either for or against public ownership of public utilities.

If reproach attaches, its rests largely against the instructors who have accepted such employment, although many of them may be entirely innocent of intent at wrongdoing.

If it accomplishes nothing more, the investigation of the federal trade commission will bring out the fact that much, if not almost all, of the matter on which the public has been fed has been propaganda and the forces behind the propaganda will be revealed. It will also identify the instructors who have been active in the contest between the two forces for pay. Both of these developments should prove beneficial.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 23.—There are signs that radio is really going to turn from being a jazz-band and become a schoolmaster. This is indicated in a recent announcement from Peking, China, that a great educational campaign is to be undertaken.

The Chinese government is considering comprehensive plans for nation-wide establishment of community centers, whose equipment will be featured chiefly by modern loud-speaking radio sets, which are to be used mainly for the broadcasting of educational topics, governmental programs and activities, agricultural knowledge and current news articles vitally associated with the welfare of the Oriental republic. Obviously, China has developed the idea from the success of the Mexican venture of broadcasting governmental news, which is given credit for doing great good in Mexico.

The vast majority of Chinese live in villages. It is estimated that approximately 80 per cent of the entire population of the nation is employed in agricultural pursuits, but the custom-bound farmer goes out from his village daily to work on his farm, rather than to make for himself a home on his fields. Thus, the great outstanding institution in the social and political life of China is the village, and it is a very democratic establishment. Every villager knows every other villager's business, and it may be said that the knowledge of any one individual in the village is the common knowledge of all.

The village elder is likely to be an educated man, that is, educated in compliance with the traditions of Chinese classic instruction. The actual percentage of illiteracy in the villages is alarmingly high, and the populace generally acquires its limited amount of news by the word-of-mouth method, very few being able to read even the characters of the nation's script. News from nearby communities and far-flung regions is spread by traveling minstrels, members of caravans, and town criers.

Furthermore, China has developed little by modern means of internal communications, a situation which has been blamed by well-informed foreign observers as a prime factor toward keeping the nation in a turbulent condition. The country is one of vast landed domains. Railways, telegraphs, telephones, newspapers, and efficient post office service, all of which have played a prominent part in the mass education of the United States, are only at the inception stage of development in China. For instance, to send a letter from Peking to Chengtu, the capital of Szechuan province in West China, a distance by airline of less than 1000 miles, requires about a month.

Moreover, the largest of the few newspapers in China has a circulation of approximately 100,000. Its headquarters is in Shanghai, but more than 50 per cent of its subscribers are scattered about the entire country. Readers living in remote regions receive their papers three to eight weeks after the date of publication.

Until recently the remedying of this deplorable situation seemed to be quite hopeless. Modernly educated Chinese, inspired with nationalistic ideas and bent upon devoting their time and efforts to the uplift of their people's welfare, realized the necessity of instituting some means of effective mass education. The task, however, seemed stupendous in face of the nation's vast extent of territory and its huge population.

But suddenly the entire aspect of the situation changed, engendered by a marked increase in the importation of radio sets by Chinese. Here was the solution of the baffling educational problem. Then, according to Julian Arnold, commercial attaché of the department of commerce in Peking, it was decided to use the radio as the main factor toward spreading education and news.

It is hoped that these broadcasts to the farmers of China may encourage them to look with favor on the use of modern equipment, although optimism on this point is checked somewhat by the knowledge that the Chinese agriculturist is a stickler for the traditional methods of his forebears, no matter how primitive. The low wage scale paid for coolie labor also offers a serious bar to the introduction of mechanical equipment, with its high initial cost and upkeep expense.

The government is now operating official broadcasting stations in sixteen of the largest cities in China, the first of which was established last June at Nanking.

Q. Why was the Carlisle Indian School discontinued?
H. A.

A. The Indian Office says that the Carlisle Indian School was originally an old army post which the war department turned over for a school in the East for Indians about 1880. The agreement was that when needed the Indian office would give back the post to the war department. This was done in the latter part of the war and the school was used for rehabilitation work. The date was December 21, 1918.

Q. How much money is paid out by insurance companies on automobile accidents? M. E. R.

A. Last year of 1927 for nearly $100,000,000 were paid for automobile accidents.

Q. Where is Wrangell Island? R. G. T.

A. Wrangell Island is in the Arctic Ocean, about 169 miles from the Siberian coast. A harbor in the south-eastern part is in latitude 70 degrees 57 minutes N. and longitude 178 degrees 10 minutes W. The island is about 7 miles long and 35 miles wide. It was sighted in 1867 by the captain of a United States sailing vessel. In 1907 officers from the United States naval vessel "Albatross" on the island and claimed it for this country. The question of ownership is unsettled.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, June 23.—Perhaps the most hazardous of all Manhattan occupations is that of the steel workers who play such an important part in flinging skyscrapers up to the clouds. Yet in proportion to their numbers there are fewer casualties than among taxi drivers.

The steel workers are mostly in their twenties and, as might be expected, are robust and healthy young fellows without the quality known as emotional. The majority are cigarette smokers, but that is the extent of their submission to habits. They are well paid and usually thrifty.

Their immunity from danger lies almost wholly in the mental detachment from the risks they take. Once they begin thinking of the perils of the job they are in jeopardy. The sensible who find themselves indulging such a mood knock off work and go to the movies.

When one of them now and then misses a step and ricochets to disaster, all work on the building under construction is suspended for the day. Their greatest handicap is in working in high winds and on unusually blowy days they refrain from work.

Premontion is a fetish. Friday the 13th is anathema. And like those who flit with death in the circus arenas, superstition is strong. When the Woolworth tower was under construction there is the story of the black cat found one day on a beam at the 30th floor.

Work was held up for two days. There is also the legend of the beam walker who walked under a ladder on his way to work and decided to call it a day. His fellows tried to laugh off his fears and induced him to go to work. A half hour later he toppled to his death.

Most of them are said to have been raised on farms, where they acquired an early sturdiness and physical poise. Any number have gone to Hollywood, where their dizzy diodes are featured in movie thrillers, and where they are known as "stunt men."

As one fond of New York but with a "pash," too, for the outland, I think the greatest fallacy concerns the general belief that New York City that New York has a fanatical worship of money. You rather expect to see gentlemen in silk hats paying to a dollar bill on the street. A rich man in a smaller city is an important nabob and people look up to him in a way New York never does. He generally has his way about most things, socially and otherwise. But a millionaire in New York is of no more importance than an onion in Bermuda.

I have seen a few New York millionaires hanging to the outside ropes for admittance to cafes and supper clubs. That would never happen in a smaller city. The small town millionaire's prominence and wealth automatically unlock all the doors. He is welcomed everywhere. New York makes it gnomes alone to the spender. If he happens to be a millionaire, well and good, but he doesn't get front row tables, choice theatre seats and such just because he is a millionaire.

There is the specious theory, too, that you can pry into the upper crust of New York society with wealth alone as a jimmy. While what is known as the Four Hundred is in reality about Forty Thousand there is a creme de la creme of society, rock-ribbed and impervious to assaults of the nouveau riche. This refers to that fragmentary remains of the once illustrious band that always reposed the climbers and is still presided over by the dowager Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt. Wealth makes no impression on them. They hold the aristocratic fort, despite the fact that many notable ancestors peddled polecat skins, manufactured fertilizer, and half-soled their breeches with leather.

Having lived in almost every sized place from the cross roads to the Big Town, I am convinced New York leads in giving the poor man "the breaks." The small town is always critical of a newcomer with a flat purse. All a poor man needs in New York is a Tuxedo and the gift of gab. And don't I know!

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

Perhaps you have noticed at a moving picture show that you have felt sick at your stomach. You may have imagined that your food had turned against you. In most instances, however, nausea appearing under such circumstances is caused by eye trouble.

Lots of folks, even those who commute every day, suffer more or less from nausea, headache and occasionally, vomiting, whenever they ride in cars. Car-sickness differs somewhat from seasickness. The latter is due to the peculiar effect upon the internal ear of the "swells" or "long rolls" of the sea.

What are called the "semi-circular" associated with the internal ear, are certain spaces filled with fluid and which act as spirit-levels to determine our place in space. The pronounced movements of the ship on a rolling sea make undue demands upon these organs, and the symptoms of seasickness develop.

To some extent the same causes operate in producing car-sickness. But in this condition there are other more important factors. The most common of these is eyestrain, usually from lack of balance of the eye muscles.

It is perfectly natural to read on the cars, to do spend the time looking out of the windows at the rapidly shifting scenery. In either case you are under the necessity, every moment, of changing the focus of your eyes and of turning them in different directions. The same necessity exists in looking at a moving picture screen.

These experiences bring to notice the least failure of accurate adjustment of the focusing and moving of the eyes. Strain which would hardly be noticed in the ordinary uses of the eyes becomes very unpleasant, and results in all the symptoms of what we call car-sickness.

In car-sickness, as in seasickness, it is hard sometimes to be sure the trouble isn't a plain case of indigestion. Seasickness, which is much more pronounced than car-sickness, is unmistakable in that the face and ears of the victim have a peculiar greenish, almost transparent appearance.

In persistent car-sickness, the eyes should be examined to see if glasses are needed. This is not complete unless the muscles of the eyes are tested. The seeing power may be above the average, but the muscle adjustment may be very defective.

Should the eyes prove to be all right, then the ears should be examined to see if everything is normal. There is usually some underlying cause for car-sickness, but once in a while an apparently perfectly healthy individual is found who can never swing in a hammock, ride backward on the cars, or get on a train without nausea. For such there seems to be no cure, but the average case can be overcome as I have suggested.

Black Eye of Yesteryear.
What has become of that time-honored institution, the black eye? Time was when it was so common that it attracted only passing notice. Nearly every physician kept on hand a supply of medicines for their treatment and "black-eye paint" was on the shelves of every drug store. Many a good piece of shirlin has wound up its career as a poultice over a "bum lamp."

We miss the ingenious excuses that used to be offered for black eyes. One of the commonest was, "I ran into a door in the dark." This sometimes failed to explain skinned knuckles and scratched cheeks that went with the black eye, but in the absence of definite information by the inquirer, it had to be accepted.

Saturday night was especially hazardous in regard to doors standing ajar in dark rooms. In fact, doors showed an uncanny intelligence in picking that particular night to disfigure owners. But a black eye is a rare sight, these days. Perhaps, with the universal use of electricity in the homes, the hazard has been reduced. Or, perhaps, woman has left man no private domain in which to settle his arguments in the old-fashioned way. One can remember when a black eye proved conclusively that the recipient was wrong, politically, economically and socially.—Columbus Dispatch.

Once Overs

Many Women "Drop In" Too Much.

Some women are too neighborly. There is the kind of woman who never seems to be busy in her own home.

She runs into the homes or apartments of her neighbors nearly every day.

Perhaps she gets her work done quickly, or possibly she is not particular about the appearance of her own home.

At any rate she seems to have more time for gossiping than the majority of other women.

For that is about all these frequent visitors have to offer.

It is not often they bring anything valuable to hear.

There are many women who use their leisure for something more profitable than gossip.

They read and study—work out plans that require time and careful thinking.

The woman who is constantly "running in" is usually looked upon as one of the pests of the neighborhood.

Breaks All Coast-to-Coast Round Trip Records by—

FRANKLIN AIRMAN

Los Angeles to New York to Los Angeles

Total mileage: 6692. Total elapsed time: 157 hrs. 23 min.

(All timing checked by Western Union Officials)

Once again Franklin's advanced construction principles have won a decisive victory!

In sixty-six hundred miles of continuous driving—under all conditions of road and weather—a stock Airman Sedan driven by Cannon Ball Baker, famous road driver, achieved the record which, above all others, carries outstanding prestige and recognized importance.

The Airman's ability to cover the maximum miles per day with the minimum of fatigue to the driver counted heavily for success. Mile after mile, hour after hour, Franklin maintained a higher average rate of speed—registered many extra miles per day—which is the true test of speed. Cannon Ball Baker drove the Airman continuously from Los Angeles to New York and back to Los Angeles with no stop except for fuel. The Airman is the only motor car designed for sustained high speed with comfort.

Scientific light weight provided supreme driving ease. Franklin's ability to hold the road—and the positive action of synchronized 4-wheel hydraulic brakes—established a new conception of high average speed with safety.

Aviation has advanced the air-cooled motor as the standard of engine performance. In all the recent record-breaking flights the air-cooled motor was unanimously chosen for its reliability and powers of endurance.

The Airman's record-breaking, coast-to-coast run makes the air-cooled motor supreme on the highway. Its thorough dependability and efficiency were positive factors for safety—on the stiffest mountain grades the air-cooled motor delivered an abundance of power without a suggestion of overheating.

You are urged to have a demonstration this week—in America's fastest road car.

[This remarkable round-trip coast-to-coast record beats the previous record by 10 hrs. and 36 min.]

Taxi-Driving Preacher Has Faith in U. S. Youth

REV. THOMAS H. WHEPLEY
(International Newsreel)

By GRAHAM STEWART
International Illustrated News Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK.—In spite of the alarmist surveys which splash over into the public prints, modern youth of America isn't traveling lickety split to perdition. On the contrary, the boys and girls nowadays are pretty sensible youngsters, who have merely adapted their pace to a machine age.

You can take the word of his driver's clothes. In his journeys about the city he contents himself with seeing, hearing and keeping his own counsel; whatever lessons he derives are saved for his sermons. "Driving around at night I gain a wonderful insight into the so-called 'wild life uptown,'" the preacher-taxi driver says. "I may be losing my eyesight, but to me it does not present the scene of depravity that I had been told of. The police seem to handle the crowds perfectly, and considering the number of people around there are very few drunks."

The Rev. Whelpley related to the reporter of an occasion when he drove a couple to his own church to be married. He descended, offered to interview the pastor, and presently appeared in another suit and invited the boy and girl inside. Immediately after the knot was tied he effected a quick change and slipped out of a side door to take his place at the wheel of his cab. Then he drove the newlyweds to a railroad station, whence they departed on their honeymoon.

A former lieutenant in the Canadian army, the Rev. Whelpley isn't a "snooper" when he changes into

DEMOCRATS TRY TO STIFLE CONFLICT IN CONVENTION

SMITH FORCES HOPE TO AVERT 1924 DEBACLE

"Why Hamstring Governor?" Asw Friends in Houston.

FOES ARE ACTIVE

Harmonizers Aim to Soft-pedal Prohibition Fight.

By George R. Holmes.
HOUSTON, Tex., June 23.—A quiet but extremely energetic campaign was under way here today to stifle the sounds of conflict already beginning to rise in connection with the Democratic national convention which opens Tuesday.

It is predicted thus: "Smith is going to be nominated. Why hamstring him, then, by repeating Madison Square Garden?" In this campaign are, first of all, the active supporters of the governor. Of more importance is the fact there are a number of southerners who would rather see someone else nominated but who are convinced no one else will be, and want to make the best of the situation.

Anti-Smith Movement Fails.
Early efforts to form a bitter-end, anti-Smith coalition have failed. Thus far efforts along this line haven't made much headway. There are half a dozen rival candidates, each with his small following and each determined to "stop Smith" but there is totally lacking the coordination necessary to success.

For the first time since 1912, a memorable year to Democrats, it is pointed out, a Republican convention has just concluded its work by doing a lot of wash in public. The agricultural discontent in the normally Republican middle west, coupled with the clashing attack that is planned on the Republican scandals, oil and otherwise, has convinced a lot of Democrats that they have a real chance to win in November. Therefore, they want, if possible, to present here in Houston a reasonably harmonious convention and get away as soon as possible.

This task of the harmonizers is to soft-pedal the prohibition fight.

Pittman on Platform Committee.
The radical dries are militant and determined to hammer into the platform at any cost a plank that will commit the party irrevocably to the "moral righteousness" of prohibition. The Smith people are equally determined that there will be no such plank and, being in the majority, are confident of their ability to defeat it. They are not so much afraid of the plank itself as they are fearful that the fight over it may engender so much bitter feeling that there will be a repercussion in November.

In this connection they have already made some headway through the virtual selection of Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada, to be chairman of the platform committee. Senator Pittman is rated a dry, as most western Democrats are, but he does not belong to the radical fringe of the party on this question.

With Pittman running the resolutions committee, with Claude G. Bowers, a personal friend of Governor Smith's as temporary chairman of the convention, and with the likely selection of Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, a hard hitting organization Democrat, as permanent chairman, the harmonizers feel already reasonably confident of their ability to control any situation that may arise.

MAE MURRAY MOTHER OF SON

HOLLYWOOD, Ca., June 23.—Telegrams of felicitation flowed eastward today to Mae Murray, congratulating her on being the mother of a golden-haired son whose existence has been kept a secret for 16 months by the famed stage and screen star and her titled husband, Prince David Mdivant. The prince broke the news to astonished Hollywood, when the paternity of the youngster was sought by puzzled friends of the couple.

STUDENT FLIER KILLED IN CRASH

CAMDEN, N. J., June 23.—One student flier was reported killed and another seriously injured in an airplane crash on the grounds of the Pine Valley Golf club today. First reports failed to give details of the crash or the names of the fliers.

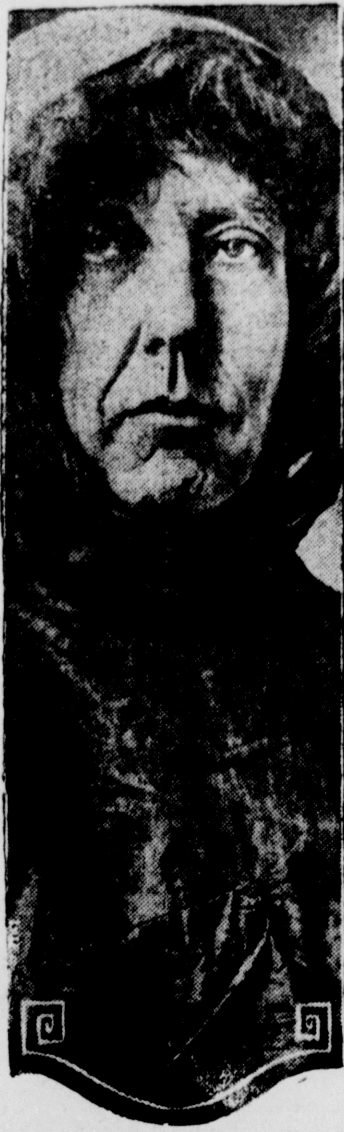

The students were said to have taken the plane for a trial flight without permission and it crashed to the ground from a height of only a few hundred feet.

State G. O. P. Meet

10 a. m. As temporary chairman, Fess delivered the "keynote" speech at the recent Republican national convention at Kansas City. A permanent organization is to be perfected at the opening of the Friday session. The Women's Republican Glee club of Columbus will sing.

Selection of electoral college candidates and adoption of the state platform will bring the convention to a close. Under the call issued by the state central committee for the convention, provision was made for 1,374 delegates from the state's 88 counties.

HE'S LOST TOO

conquers disease, it may be necessary, artificially, to prevent humans multiplying as the rabbits did in Australia.

SIR JAMES BARRIE tells Rhodes scholars not to try for "greatness." The advice was humorous, probably. Try for greatness produces desirable mediocrity. Men "aim high to shoot low" as the illiterate colored man said when he asked Grover Cleveland to make him librarian of Congress. He really wanted a job as porter.

A baby cries for the moon and is satisfied with a cookie. Youth reaches for greatness and is content with modest achievement and a place on the golf course.

WINFIELD R. SHEEHAN, who knows about moving pictures, says screens will be much bigger for large-sized theatres now building every where. That will make it necessary to revise production methods.

Most important for budding genius, he says the "talking movie" will create a new army of scenario writers, knowing how to make sound effective in pictures.

In a detective story, noise of a creaking board, or a shot, might be more effective than the hero's smile. Mr. Sheehan believes that the pictures with sound will double movie picture attendance.

SECRETARY WORK of the Interior Department, will conduct Secretary Hoover's presidential campaign. No better man could be chosen.

Like Mr. Hoover, Mr. Work knows this country, understands the work of development that the country needs and is in full sympathy with Secretary Hoover's plans and past accomplishments.

Mr. Hoover is fortunate in having Senator Curtis for a running mate, and doubly fortunate with Secretary Work directing his campaign.

"BIG" STEEL and Bethlehem Steel Corporation combine with others in forming the "Steel Export Association of America." United States Steel is the biggest steel concern in the world. That combination of important companies is needed to compete with European nations and preserve American foreign markets.

CHILDISH talk of "necessary competition" and prattle about keeping business from getting "too big" are out of date.

Where nations combine to monopolize world business, great American units must combine for self defense.

Possibly some one will find a way to help our farmers form such a combination. They need it.

BRENNAN SEES SMITH VICTORY

HOUSTON, Tex., June 23.—George E. Brennan, Illinois national committee man and one of the original Smith sponsors in the middle-west arrived today breathing optimism for the Smith candidacy, harmony and democratic success in November.

Brennan headed the Illinois delegation, which is divided 44-17 for Smith. The scattered anti-Smith delegates from down-state are for various candidates.

"The candidate is the important work of this convention," Brennan said, concerning the prospect of a wet and dry fight over the prohibition plank. "With a winning candidate, the conflicting view of platform can be adjusted. The first work is to nominate Governor Smith."

DENY AL WILL PRESS DEMAND FOR WET PLANK

Smith Headquarters Quietly Laughing at Fuss.

STANDS BY LAW

Report Says He Will O. K. Enforcement Plank.

By Raymond I. Borst.

HOUSTON, Tex., June 23.—Gov. Al Smith has no intention of demanding a wet plank in the Democratic platform and some of his close friends here are quietly laughing up their sleeves at all the fuss being made by the dries, according to reports in circulation at the Smith headquarters here today.

Although Governor Smith personally believes the Volstead law should be modified, it was pointed out by members of his board of strategy that he has repeatedly declared for strict enforcement of all laws.

There has been a persistent report at the Smith headquarters for the last 24 hours that the governor will approve the writing into the platform of a plank declaring for rigid enforcement of all laws, but making no specific mention of either the Eighteenth amendment or the Volstead law.

Olwyn Mum On Prohibition.
Because of repeated public declarations made by Smith in the last two years in which he asserted that all laws should be strictly enforced, his managers are said to feel that it will not embarrass him, as a presidential candidate, to run on a platform which declares for rigid law enforcement.

Judge George Olwyn, leader of Tammany Hall, and half a dozen other leaders in that famous Democratic organization are here to do all they can in a quiet way to help nominate Governor Smith but they are making it a point not to discuss prohibition.

Both Judge Olwyn and George R. Van Namee, pre-convention managers for the New York executive, have made it plain there is no one in Houston who has the authority to speak for Smith on prohibition and that when the proper time comes the governor will make known his views, either through a public statement or by message to the New York delegation.

Reed Fights Smith

lective backbone of the loosely-drawn alliance, fighting the nomination of Gov. Al Smith, was strengthened considerably today with Sen. James A. Reed, of Missouri, on the battlefield, taking personal command of his own race for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The very appearance of Reed in Houston apparently was the signal for a series of attacks, direct and indirect, on the Smith candidacy. As a result, the Reed followers were chanting an optimistic song around the slogan: "Reed will win; win with Reed."

The "Fighting Jim" of Missouri Democracy was given a spectacular welcome to the convention city. Hundreds met his train, more hundreds thronged the lobby of his headquarters hotel, where he held an impromptu reception and followers of a half dozen other candidates shook his hand and wished him well. The senator spent this morning in his hotel suite, conferring with his lieutenants. He was to see newspapermen at 11 o'clock to discuss his own candidacy.

Give Smith 651 Votes.
The presence of Reed put heart into his followers and stirred up the other candidates, opposing Smith. For instance, Cordell Hull, of Tennessee, issued a statement, coincident with Reed's arrival, declaring in favor of a dry plank and opposing the Smith suggestion for modification of prohibition. Then A. C. Sallee, a pre-convention, issued for Evans Woolson, of Indiana, issued a statement declaring Indiana would vote for the Hoosier "until a candidate is nominated." There probably is no connection between these events, but it is significant that the shooting at Smith was coincident on Reed's arrival.

One of the Reed managers, meanwhile, issued a forecast of the first ballot. Smith was given but 651 votes, whereas 734 are necessary for nomination. It gave Reed 90 1-2 votes, Pomerene 47; George 28; Jones 40; Woolson 30; Robinson 18; Ayres 20; Hitchcock 16; Baker 18; Hull 43 1-2, and 98 scattered. Previously, F. J. Prince, a Reed manager, predicted Smith would not get more than 660 votes and, therefore, was certain to be stopped.

Reed's Stand on Prohibition.
Reed's position on prohibition was made plain this morning when his headquarters circulated pamphlets outlining a speech the Missourian made on the subject of prohibition back in 1921. In it Reed said: "This is not a question of wet or dries. It is a constitutional question and not a prohibition question. I am anxious to see the Eighteenth amendment to the constitution given every chance to function. When it became a part of the fundamental law of the United States it became my law. I have little respect for those who supported that amendment in the senate and in the house who have been, since its enactment, deliberately violating its plain provisions."

The Reed managers believe Smith is stopped. They believe Reed is the logical candidate and a certain victor with Smith eliminated. This is their campaign strategy and they expect it to be a winning strategy about the fourth or fifth ballot when voting begins in the convention next week.

DON SHAY WILL GO TO HARVARD

Ward J. Herbert, oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Josiah T. Herbert, Highland place, graduated with honor Thursday night from the Harvard law school. Herbert previously had taken scholastic honors in his graduation from Ohio State university in 1925. He will practice law in the east.

OHIO DELEGATION OFF FOR HOUSTON

COLUMBUS, O., June 23.—Vigorous assertion that the 48 votes of the Ohio delegation will not be cast for Governor Vic Donahey for president, even if supporters of the Buckeye state governor should place him in nomination in opposition to the candidacy of Governor Al Smith, was made here today by a number of members of the delegation as they prepared to depart this afternoon for Houston, Texas, to participate in the Democratic national convention.

Members of the Ohio delegation, according to plans, will leave here at 3:15 p. m., over the Big Four railroad for Houston, by way of Cincinnati and St. Louis. They are expected to arrive at Houston about 9 a. m., Monday, it was stated.

Kansas City Will Have $4,000,000 Veneer Plant

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 23.—A merger of three large veneer companies, giving Kansas City a $4,000,000 concern, the largest of its kind in the world, has been announced here.

Through the reported manipulation the Penrod Walnut and Veneer Co., of this city, will obtain control of the Kosse, Shoe and Schleyer Co., of Cincinnati, and the Des Moines, Iowa, Sawmill Company.

A large part of the two outside plants will probably be joined to the two million dollar concern here, officials stated. The Penrod company is one of the pioneer establishments in the field.

Austria Builds New Fireproof Safes to Preserve Records

VIENNA.—The new Austrian Property Records are deposited in strongly built fireproof safes to prevent a second destruction of these valuable records, which were almost entirely destroyed as a result of the burning of the Vienna Palace of Justice during the riots of July 15, 1927.

From August last more than 100 extra officials have been employed in compiling new records, in spite of which more than one-third of the records could not have been restored yet.

An interesting revelation of the leading officials, who are directing the restoration work is, that over 50 per cent of Viennas' houses and mortgages are owned by foreigners, a proof of Austria's poverty.

ANTI-SMITH WOMEN TO VOTE FOR HOOVER

Mrs. Ada Orme Dupuy Warns Houston Delegates.

BONE DRY LEADER

Says 300,000 of Sex Oppose Wet Candidate.

By KENNETH CLARK.

HOUSTON, Texas, June 23.—An army of Democratic women will canvass the wives and mothers of the nation to vote for Herbert Hoover if Al Smith is nominated by the Democratic convention, Mrs. Ada Orme Dupuy announced today.

She is one of the leaders of the Women's National Democratic Law Enforcement league which is seeking a bone dry platform. She will nominate Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson of Maryland, head of the league, for the vice presidency.

"We represent 300,000 Democratic women who are opposed unalterably to all wet candidates," said Mrs. Dupuy. "I understand the Smith forces will approve a platform which calls for the enforcement of all laws, including the Eighteenth amendment. But that is insufficient. A wet could not run on such a platform without being accused of duplicity. It would wreck the party."

Plans "Hoover Apron Clubs."
Mrs. Dupuy believes the dries will be able to block Smith.

If Smith is nominated, she added, "we will vote for Hoover."

"We will organize 'Hoover Apron clubs,'" she said. "Remember, during the war when Hoover was food administrator all housewives wore Hoover aprons."

"We haven't much money, but we have the spirit and determination not to allow a wet to enter the White House."

Anti-Smith Literature.

Among the delegates arriving for the convention, Mrs. Dupuy's organization is circulating anti-Smith literature which contains the following:

"Gov. Smith has devoted a life time to the political service of Tammany, to battling against the ebbing tide of liquor, to a public defense of the underworld and the graft and corruption upon which it lives. Members of this underworld were the friends of his youth, his sponsors in politics, and today make up the coterie of intimate friends who surround him. As he fought against every reform that was presented in his long legislative career, so as governor he brought about the repeal of the Mullen-Gage law and only last year opposed a bill which proposed to make it a crime in New York to sell the 'poison hootch'."

"This man Smith is repugnant to their every ideal. Under the circumstances, why should Democracy other than in the East Side of New York city, tamely surrender to this unnatural element which exists but for jobs, contracts, and the protection of its vices?"

The Anti-Saloon league forces are confident they will get a prohibition plank as strong as the one adopted at Kansas City.

FIVE NATIONS LIST 18 CASES JOIN SEARCH IN CITY COURT FOR AMUNDSEN

Italians Drop Supplies for Nobile on Hop to North.

NORWAY ON JOB Sweden, Russia and France Send Planes and Ships.

KING'S BEY, Spitzbergen, June 23.—Five nations were joined today in the search for Capt. Roald Amundsen, famous Arctic explorer, who left Tromsø, Norway almost five days ago accompanied by Major Rene Guilbaud and three others in a French plane and has not been heard from since.

Majors Maddalena and Penzo, the Italians who flew over Nobile's encampment yesterday and dropped additional supplies and radio equipment by parachute, intend to scour the northern wastes for Amundsen today. They announced they will make a systematic search of the southern coast of Northeastland, Spitzbergen.

The Norwegian aviators, Capt. Rilsen Larsen and Lieut. Luetzow Holm, will make similar flights over the west coast of Spitzbergen.

Three Swedish planes, including the giant hydroplane Upland, also will scour the northlands. These planes passed over Nobile's encampment yesterday but were unable to land.

The Russian ice-breaker originally sent out to search for Nobile by the Soviet government, has altered its course and is now proceeding towards Northeastland to search for Amundsen at the request of the Norwegian government.

Two French navy ships are now en route to this place to aid in the search. An additional Italian plane left Ula yesterday to join the other Italian relief planes.

Dog Racers Handicapped.

Handicapping racing dogs by machinery is being tried by use of a starting box that has just been invented by R. Wallace of London. The apparatus is controlled by a dial that is surrounded by plug switches, by which the gates of the kennels are opened as desired. As the hare passes a certain point it automatically switches on the current connecting the gates and thus release the canines at the handicapped times.

Alaska's seal herd numbers nearly 800,000 head this year.

German Women Take Independent Political Stand

BERLIN.—In politics, women differ even more than men. This is shown by the figures of the last German election at which, in some places, men and women voted separately.

These figures showed that the women voters were the main support of the numerous little "splinter" parties of which there were more than a score in the last election; seventeen of which did not succeed in electing even one candidate. Practically all of these dwarf parties pulled considerably more women than men votes. The men preferred to cast their votes where they would count.

SUPERIOR FACILITIES—YET CHARGES ARE NO HIGHER

Some people have been led to believe that, because of our Funeral Home and its many exclusive features, our charges exceed those of others. It is true that these superior facilities enable us to render finer service, but it is also true that our charges are no higher than those for a service which does not measure up to the standard set by Sturgis Service.

ESSEX

mirrors public choice

Here, in our mirror, is Boston, where the Essex Super-Six not only outsells all "Sixes" but attains a 6-cylinder sales volume that is a record for this city.

It is natural that the centers of mechanical tradition, such as the New England States, Detroit, Pittsburgh and the great industrial cities of Europe should appraise Essex value with fidelity. But the preponderance of Essex values is so outstanding, that its preference, regardless of expert knowledge, is countrywide and worldwide, and its sales the greatest ever accorded a 6-cylinder car.

All prices f. o. b. Detroit
Buyers can pay for cars out of income at lowest available charge for interest, handling and insurance

The Essex Super-Six is outselling, and all this year has outsold, every other "Six" by such margins that comparison is only a gesture.

Not only in Detroit, where automobile values are better understood than anywhere in the world, but in New England and the South; in the West, the Orient and the Antipodes its popular preference is instant, sustained and eagerly increasing.

For it needs no expert to see—that every expert knows—that such an array of values was never before presented within hundreds of dollars of the price.

Your first glance tells that. But more important, you can examine this Essex, part by part, and in each item, whether it is the upholstery used, or the costliest type of four-wheel brakes, or the use of vertical shutters, demonstrate a superiority of quality and actual margins of costlier material and workmanship.

For instance, the slender, graceful wheel of black hard rubber with steel core, is exactly the same used in cars costing $5000 and upwards. The hardware, in Colonial motif, is worthy of designation as silverware. The high-back, form-fitting, roomy seats, the smoothness of the motor, and the easy riding roadability of the Essex, make a day of travel without fatigue, and leave you fresh and eager for tomorrow.

The patented Super-Six high-compression motor is the most powerful and efficient of its size within our knowledge.

To know the overpowering conviction of greatest value held by Essex owners is merely to see Essex beauty, to examine Essex quality, to sit inside and feel Essex comfort—to ride and know Essex performance.

Bobby Jones Leading Field As National Open Nears Climax

65 Will Compete Today In Last Rounds of Play

Leach, Von Elm, Hagen, Ciuci and MacFarlane Have Outside Chance at Title; Shute Too Far Back at 148.

By Davis J. Walsh.

OLYMPIA FIELDS, Ill., June 23.—With the inevitable Robert T. Jones leading the way by two strokes, the National open golf championship was to go into the final stages this morning.

FINISHERS BEAT FURNACE SQUAD

MIDLAND, Pa., June 23.—Finishing Mill turned in a 3-9 victory over the Open Hearth in last night's Crucible inter-departmental league affair. Douthett knocked out a three-bagger for the winners and McKiver a double. Lomond, Blue and Gold high school athletic mentor, and a recent mound acquisition for the Finishers, fanned five of the open hearth batsmen. Hearstmen scored a double play on heaves from Black to Walton to Wilson.

The field was reduced to sixty-five starts for today's two final rounds of eighteen holes each. Only Bill Leach, Philadelphia, and George von Elm, Los Angeles, tied at 146, and Walter Hagen, Henry Ciuci, the young Stratford, Conn. pro, and Willie MacFarlane, grouped at 147, had better than an outside chance at the title. Frank Walsh, Densmore Shute and Al Esplanosa seemed too far back at 148, and besides they would have no business beating Jones, anyhow. That applied naturally to the rest of them this morning, if, in fact, it didn't apply always and from the first. Rearrangement of the pairs this morning coupled Jones with Gene Sarazen; Von Elm with Joe Turnesa; MacFarlane with Harrison Johnson; Ciuci with Jack Forrester, Hagen with Jack Burke, Leach with Johnny Jones, Shute with Willie Klein and Walsh with Horton Smith.

Kids Star In Browns' Infield

Rookies Pep up Playing of St. Louis Club.

By Les Conklin.

NEW YORK, June 23.—Ralph Kress, Otis Brannon and Larry Bettencourt, the three kid infielders of the St. Louis Browns, comprise the most interesting combination developed in the big league this year. Their playing has inspired the other members of the team and it may be that the young and hustling Brownies, rather than the aging Athletics, will be the club that eventually will smash the domination of the New York Yankees in the junior league.

Kress and Brannon, transplanted from Tulsa, have made the grade as a keystone combination. Kress led the league in batting for several weeks, but now Brannon has taken the play away from his buddy by his home run hitting. Bettencourt, the Californian who was an all-American football selection last year, is fielding well and yesterday his second home run in as many days.

The Browns walloped Detroit yesterday, 8 to 3, but were outslugged in the nightcap, 12 to 6. Brannon smacked his ninth homer of the season.

Bob Burke of Washington won a brilliant 1 to 0 duel from Charley Ruffing of the Red Sox, and the Natl. climbed back into the first division. The Cleveland Indians, who took a 1 to 4 beating from the White Sox, dropped into fifth place.

Woe Willie Sherdel pitched the Cardinals to a 4 to 1 win over the Cubs in six innings. Jim Bottomley hit his 16th homer in the seventh frame but it was washed out of the records by a rain storm.

The Cards are now 4 1-2 games ahead of the Reds, who were swamped by the Pirates, 11 to 1. The Reds couldn't touch Barleigh Grimes, who chalked up his tenth victory of the season.

Last Night's Fights.

If cars could be turned inside out, if motors could be examined without difficulty, you could see the results of good lubrication.

You could see how FREEDOM Perfect Motor Oil keeps the cylinder walls smooth and well protected from damage by fire and friction. You could see how piston wear is retarded and how accurately the fit of those pistons is maintained.

Laughlin Victor Over City League Leaders In Slugging Bee

Darkness Stops Battle In 5th With Count 15-14

Evans Knocked From Slab; Finley Turns in Win as Relief Hurier; Potters Score 10 Runs in Last Frame.

Twenty-six safe hits in five innings rattled off Newell and Wellsville bats last night as Nicholson Field as Joe Dickey's Homer Laughlin Chinas nosed out the league leaders, 15 to 14, in a battle abounding with thrills from start to finish. Included among the assortment of swats were a homer by George Wagner, triple by "Chappie" Finley and a whole flock of two-baggers.

It was the third consecutive victory of the West Virginians over the pace setters.

The game was anybody's until the final frame. Wellsville let go a broadside in the opening frame, driving Evans from the box, that netted four runs, but Laughlin scored three in the second and two more in the third to take the lead, 5 to 4. Nicholson's tossers rallied in the third to force to the lead again, 6 to 5 and then chased over four more in the fourth to send the count to 10 to 5. Wellsville's victory looked like a certainty then but the visitors went to the plate in the fifth swinging powerful bats. When they quit they had added 10 runs to their total, making the tally 15 to 1.

As darkness settled over the arena, Wellsville fought desperately to come back and when the last man was out they lacked but one run of tying the count.

"Chappie" Finley, shortstop and all-around performer for the West Virginia potters, broke into the lime-light as a pitcher last night, relieving Evans in the first frame with one fone.

Evans was treated harshly by the Wellsville crew. Off his delivery in that first frame, Adamson got a single, Cal Wagner and Edwards doubles and George Wagner a home run. Chappie strode to the mound and Hancock was thrown out, Stanley to Bublin and Bloor went out, Evans to Bublin, Evans going to third.

Finley threw them in until the last of the fifth, the home club getting six blows during his tenure on the slab. Dewey Morgan, first up in the fifth, singled and Finley went to middle field, Digman going to the box without warm-up. Three successive singles and Digman gave way, Evans going back to the box to retire the side, throwing out Rager at first and fanning Edwards and G. Wagner.

Paul Bennett, Wabash college athlete, started for Wellsville but was wild and was replaced early in the contest by Easton.

"Poosh 'em up" Tony Ranaldi pushed three hits out of the infield in four times up and scored three runs. Finley had the same record for the day, although "Chap" went Tony one better by scoring two of his runs in one inning. He led off in the fifth, drew a walk, and ultimately scored. Later, Stanley got on with a single, and hurt his foot at second. Finley ran for him and reached the plate.

However, the top hitting honors for the day go to Cal Wagner who patted out four in four times up, a double

Yale Oarsmen Sweep to Victory Over Harvard.

By Malcolm Roy.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 23.—Yale, by virtue of its overwhelming victory over Harvard in their annual regatta on the Thames last evening, stands fourth today with every likelihood of being America's representative in the olympic rowing championship races at Amsterdam next month.

Not in many years has there been welded together a crew combining such tremendous power and speed with almost perfect oarsmanship, as Yale exhibited in what was promised as an even battle with its most ancient rival, but which almost from the very beginning degenerated into a procession, with the blue toying with a huge but helpless Harvard crew.

For Yale, the day was one of absolute and complete triumph, for the Eli freshman and junior varsity eight won handily in the morning races. It was the first time in the six years in which Ed Leader, product of the Washington timberlands, has been coaching the blue, that it has swept to a complete triumph in all three races. In race after race, the margin of difference increased in geometric progression—two lengths and a half in the freshman race; five and a half lengths in the junior varsity and a good full ten lengths in the varsity.

The Yale varsity covered the four mile course in 20:21 3-5, fast time with the wind blowing almost directly across the course at some points.

Here's where Motor Oil does its biggest job!

THIS SPACE MUST BE SEALED!

WHEN you put oil in your crankcase . . . remember, from there it goes to your cylinders . . . to that space between the piston and the cylinder wall. There is where oil does its biggest job! It must fit that space and seal the piston on every compression and power stroke.

Naturally this space changes with wear—and wear comes through mileage! If your car is new and the space is small—a heavy bodied oil doesn't get in the space—and if you have driven it until the space has worn large, a light bodied oil lets your power blow by!

That is why the Authorized Opaline Dealer asks "What's your mileage?" Your mileage indicates how much space there is between the piston and the cylinder wall.

This space must be sealed—if you want full power, if you want more mileage from your gasoline, if you want less dilution and sludge, less carbon trouble, less wear and lower repair bills. Seal the piston—and you have greater security and economy of operation, increased pleasure and satisfaction in driving!

Sinclair Opaline Motor Oil is made and sold in different grades to seal the power in your engine as the space between the cylinder wall and the piston changes. Tell the Authorized Opaline Dealer the mileage reading on your speedometer—he will give you not only an oil of the finest quality but correct lubrication.

The Constant Flame

Narrative of Love and Struggle
Against Temptations
By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

All of this rushed from her mind at sight of the black incredulity in his face.
"So this is the place! Came up here once but thought I was mistaken." He put out his hand, still uncertainly. "How are you?"
"Come in, King, do. I wondered what had happened." She led him into the living room and he sat down before the crayon portrait. She saw him turn his eyes, a look of pain sweeping his face. When Agnes came and he executed his low, foreign bow over her hand, Emily was acutely conscious of her mother's embarrassment.

He was elaborately courteous. He went far out of the way to make conversation and Emily was grateful for this. She'd have been willing to have listened to one of Agnes' reminiscences so tense did the evening become before the dinner was over.

She could think of nothing to say. Something, she knew, was wrong but what it was she couldn't guess. Now and then she caught the Viking eyes fixed on her in a piercing scrutiny; always it sent the red up her throat. Once she felt herself growing hysterical as Kitten gave her a little grimace.

Agnes refused the salad but that didn't matter. She could eat none of it herself. She looked at the terrible golden oak buffet—Steve had bought it years back and it had strange little shelves and dust-catching curlicues of wood—and wished she was dead.

Eventually Agnes said the thing Emily somehow knew was coming. "I've a good daughter in Emmy, Mr. Coles. She's taken care of us since her father died."

Yes indeed. She's a brave little kid."
It was sincere enough but Emily's strained imagination found a note of condescension. Certainly King's usual loveliness was absent as he followed her into the living room while Agnes and Kitten gathered up the dishes.

It didn't seem worth while to take him up to the sunroom after that. And when he remembered, all at once, that he must leave early she rose quickly and walked with him to the door.

He gave her a hasty kiss and she stood there in the dark listening to the sound of his motor growing faint down the street. Then she crept upstairs and sat with her head on the rounded wicker table and all the undraped windows of the sunroom stared at her like curious eyes.

Such a happy thing she had planned—and now the place held only bewilderment.

It wasn't that she felt a great love for King. But he'd seemed to care—to want her so. And he came like a stranger and scrutinized her across the table.

What was he thinking when he did that? What was there about this she failed to comprehend? "Why?" she kept asking herself quite as she had done when she was a very little girl. "Why?"

The next day she tried to persuade herself that she had been over sensitive. The flowers came as usual; they came for a week, in fact, before she arrived at the shop one morning and found no box at the door.

She telephoned his office in the afternoon but they said he was out.

She received a note then. He was busy now with new shows opening; he was sorry but he wouldn't be able to visit Lyall for a time. Had they, perhaps, made a mistake? She was such a fine little friend he was sure she'd understand. And he remained hers sincerely.

It was like a slap in the face, that note. She read it twice before she tore it into tiny pieces and sent them drifting into the wastebasket.

CHAPTER 40.

When Frances strolled in Emily asked if she had time to talk a bit.

"What's wrong, my dear? You look as if you'd seen a ghost."

"Maybe I have. I've seen something I don't understand. Will you tell me, Frances, why a man who has declared that you're the only thing in his life worth a darn suddenly decides it was all a mistake and remains 'yours sincerely'?"

"Ah! There are so many reasons, dear Emily. His digestion, perhaps, or the set of an east wind. Or the cussedness of a dress tie—they are fiendish, you know—or the turning over of a repressed desire. Or a new face or old one come back. Or he may be a victim of the Oedipus complex or broke or afflicted with bunions."

"A woman may take her choice of these mildly insane reasons. But she won't. All women are so incurably romantic that any one of them will hunt around for a plot—did you know every female is a superb fictionist, dear?—and she'll anchor herself to it as the lovely, tragic heroine."

"She'll build the blighter up into an image of lost perfection and go milling with that silly burden through the rest of her days, or until another peg to hang her illusion on comes into her experience."

"But I'm serious, Frances. You see it's—well, it's happened to me."

The keen eyes lost their irony. "You, Emily? Someone you loved has done this to you?"

"I suppose I didn't love him. I tried though. But he seemed to love me. Until I invited him to dinner one evening—"

"Are you by any chance talking about Kindon Coles?"

"You're guessing he's the sort?"

"Not guessing. Tell me, now."

So Emily told the story from the beginning. About Marty whom Agnes had chosen for her. About the dislike and something of fear she always had felt for the Nolan.

And about what King had said the night on the terrace and her own slowly forming conviction that she might love him sometime.

"It seemed wonderful to have one so devoted, Frances. Always doing the pleasant thing, making me feel of such consequence. I was sure he loved me. So aristocratic in all his ways—blue blooded—"

"Oh, your fetch. 'Blood will tell.' There never was a baser libel on the work of an Intelligent Creator."

"Blood! Blood blue and thin, what does it mean? Enervation, decay; anaemia of ambition, rigor of the emotions. Chill, fantastic pride; a foolish attitude toward humanity."

"It's warm, red blood that means truth. Life and laughter and love—all red-blooded, little Emily. Wherever you find those, in high places or lowly, you'll know there's rich, red blood running through them. Don't be deceived about that, my dear."

"But—"
"King Coles is a sham—a snob. I'm not saying aristocracy is all wrong; when it hits gentleness it's supreme. But every good thing has a counterfeit and aristocracy has its own in snobocracy. That's where Coles belongs; he has just enough of the real thing to color the spurious. There are many of the sort."

"Whether he loved you or not doesn't matter particularly. If it's any comfort to you I think he did."

"I didn't suspect—if you'd told me how things were going! I'm all to blame and with the best of motives."

She explained the actual circumstances. Emily had been introduced into the salon without explanations; there was an impression that she was an heiress. Coles might love an heiress but the same girl as a wage-earner would not be allowed in his life no matter what his feelings for her.

"Charge it up to experience and let it go. But be sure you let it go. Corrode your sweetness if you don't."

"It's not what happens to us from the outside that counts; it's what we let inside that stirs up trouble. And don't hold it against me, Emily."

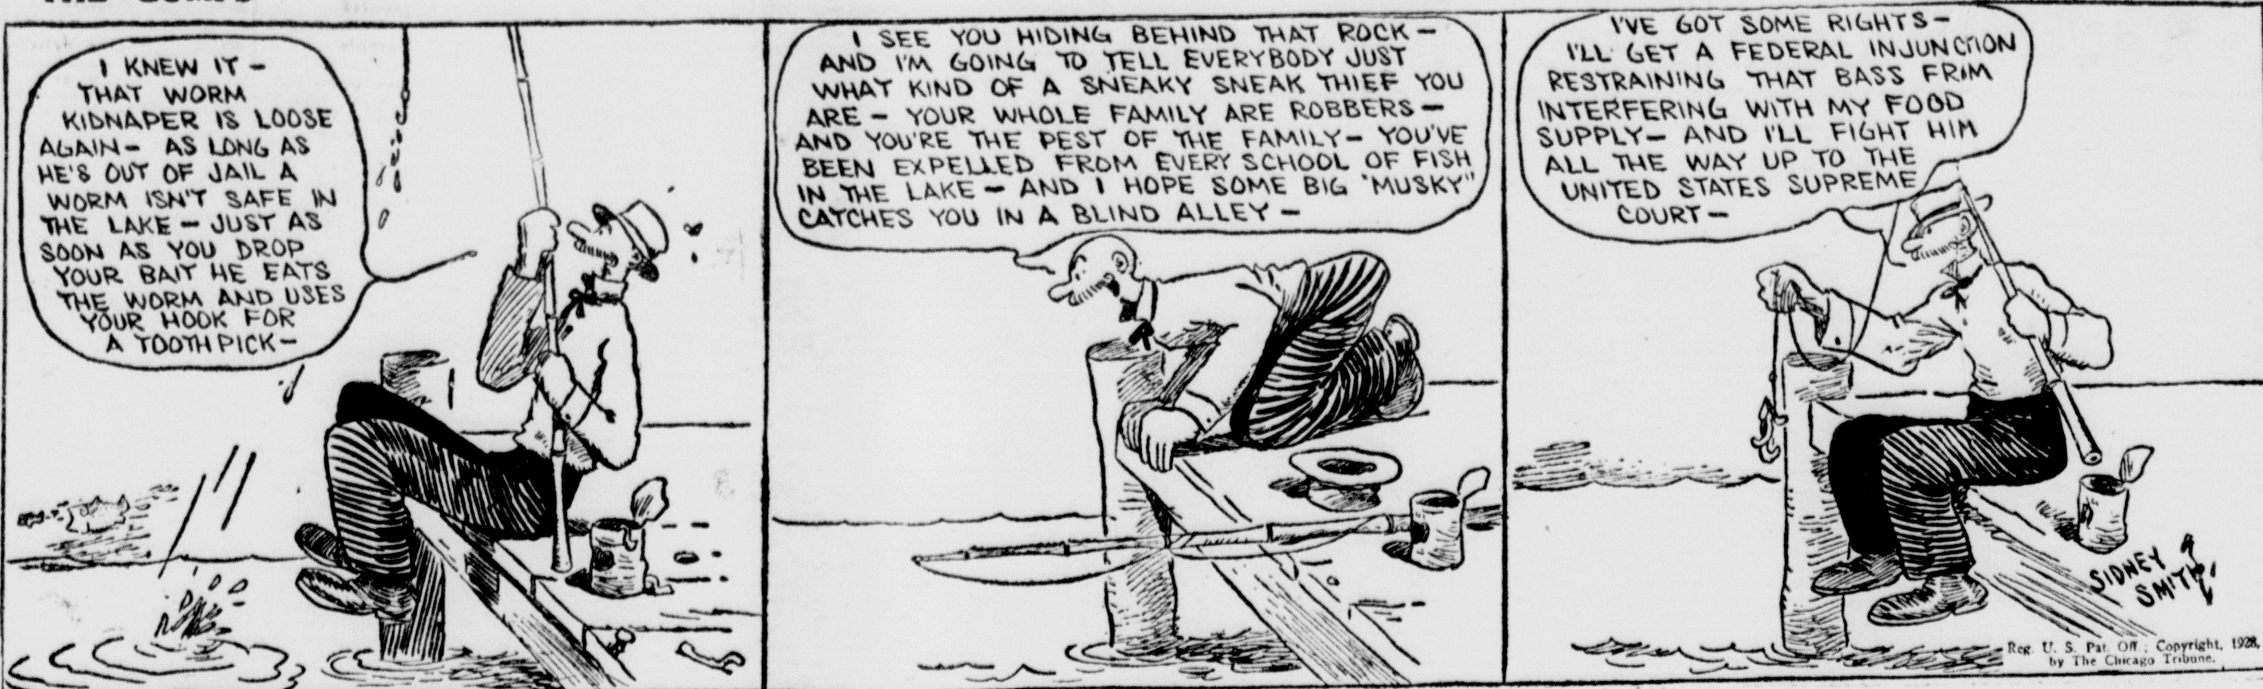

"As if I could! She gave the older woman a look full of affection but shaky little movements went about her lips. "I'll let it go—take care of that—"

But in the evening when she led Raggedy out for a walk up toward North Mountain she realized that she was struggling, rather, to let it go.

It wasn't that she cared for Coles, really, or that she wished him back. But she kept remembering things her father had said about his kind; sly, little ill-natured things which now jumped out to torment her, challenging her to deny their truth.

Milady may safely lay claim to originality when she dons this striking gown created by Poiret, for nothing approaching its slenderly beautiful lines has come out of the Paris ateliers in months. Of silver grey crepe de chine as to skirt, and with a black satin bodice, both beautified with silver braided chiffon, it is an arresting model.
